In the afternoon, Boggs will introduce a screening of the 1948 Howard Hawks classic, Red River, starring John Wayne and Montgomery Clift, at the Jean Cocteau Cinema in Santa Fe at 4 pm. Boggs is currently working on a book about the making of the movie.

In this film, Wayne created one of his greatest roles as an embittered, tyrannical Texas rancher whose tensions with his independent-minded adopted son (Clift) reach epic proportions during a cattle drive to Kansas along the historic Chisholm Trail.

In conjunction with these events, "Michael Cassidy: Cowboy Stories" is currently on view at the gallery through September 30.
